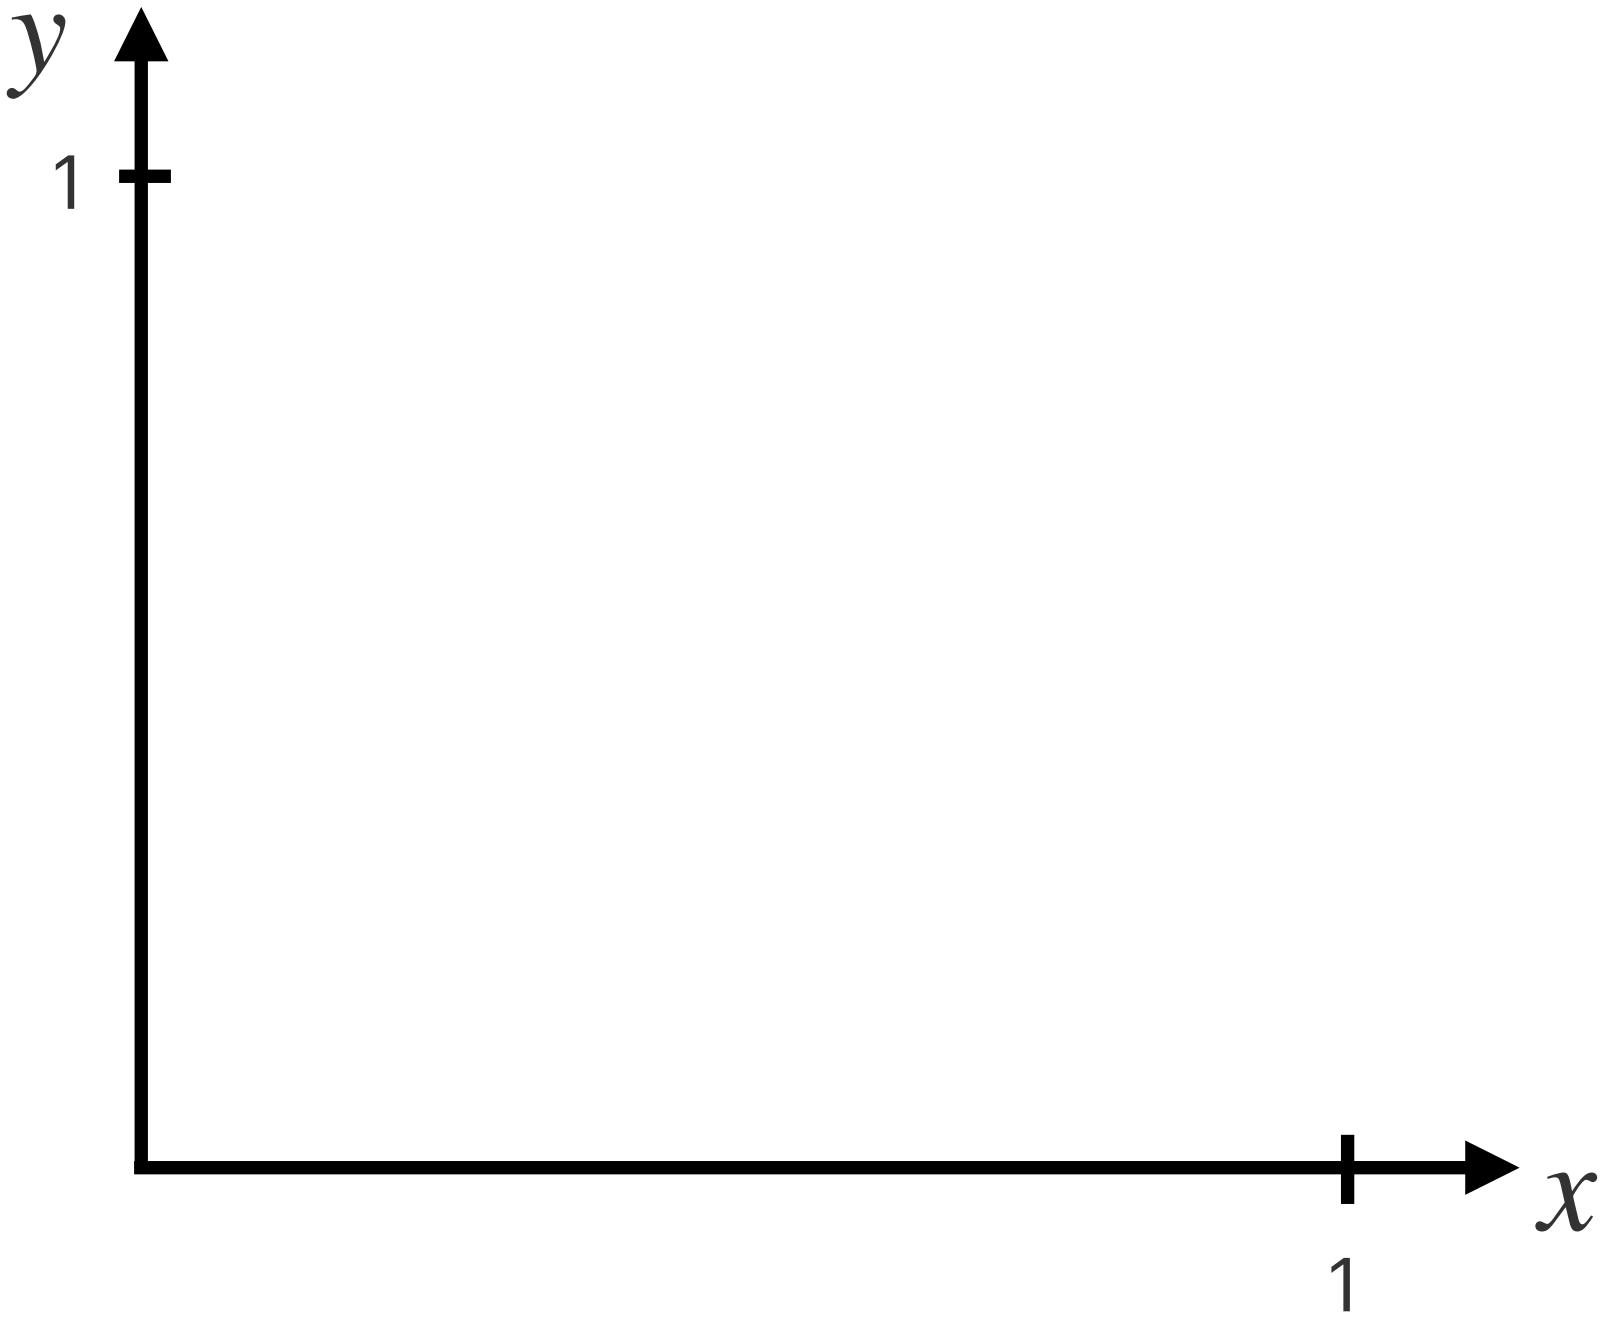
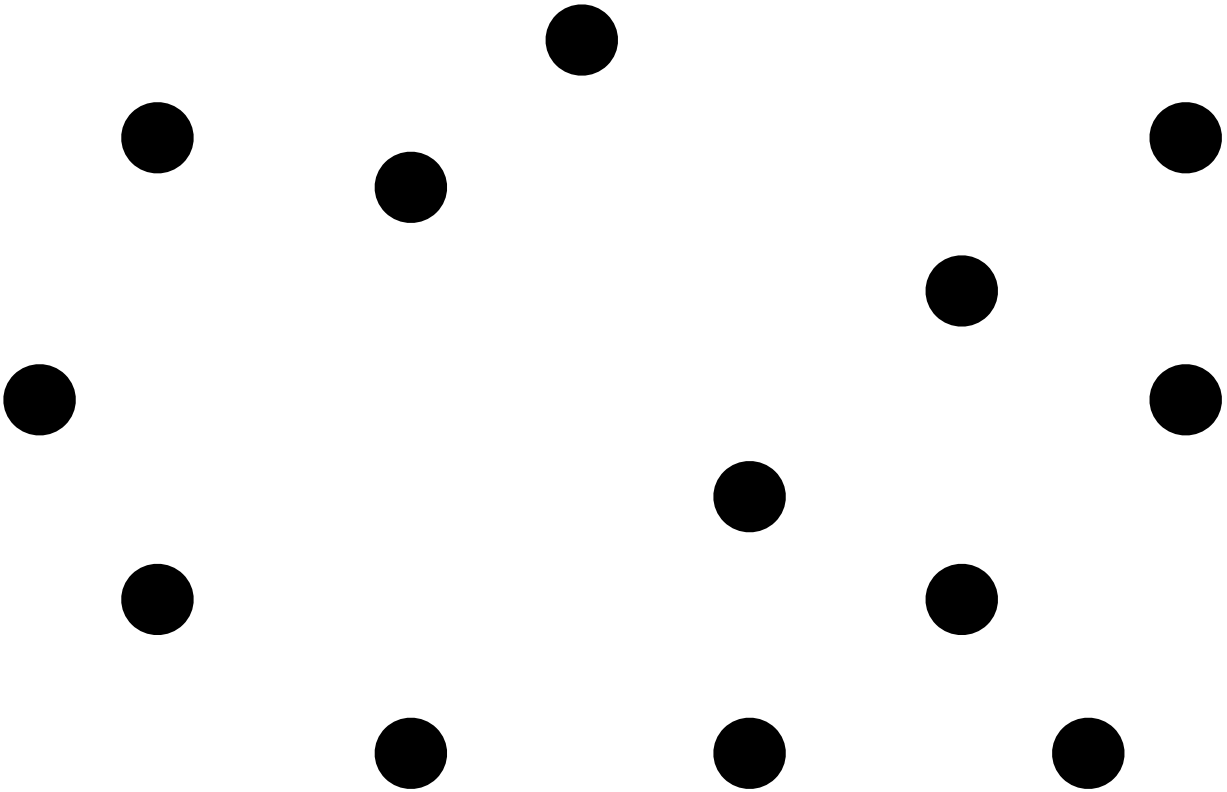
data



Example

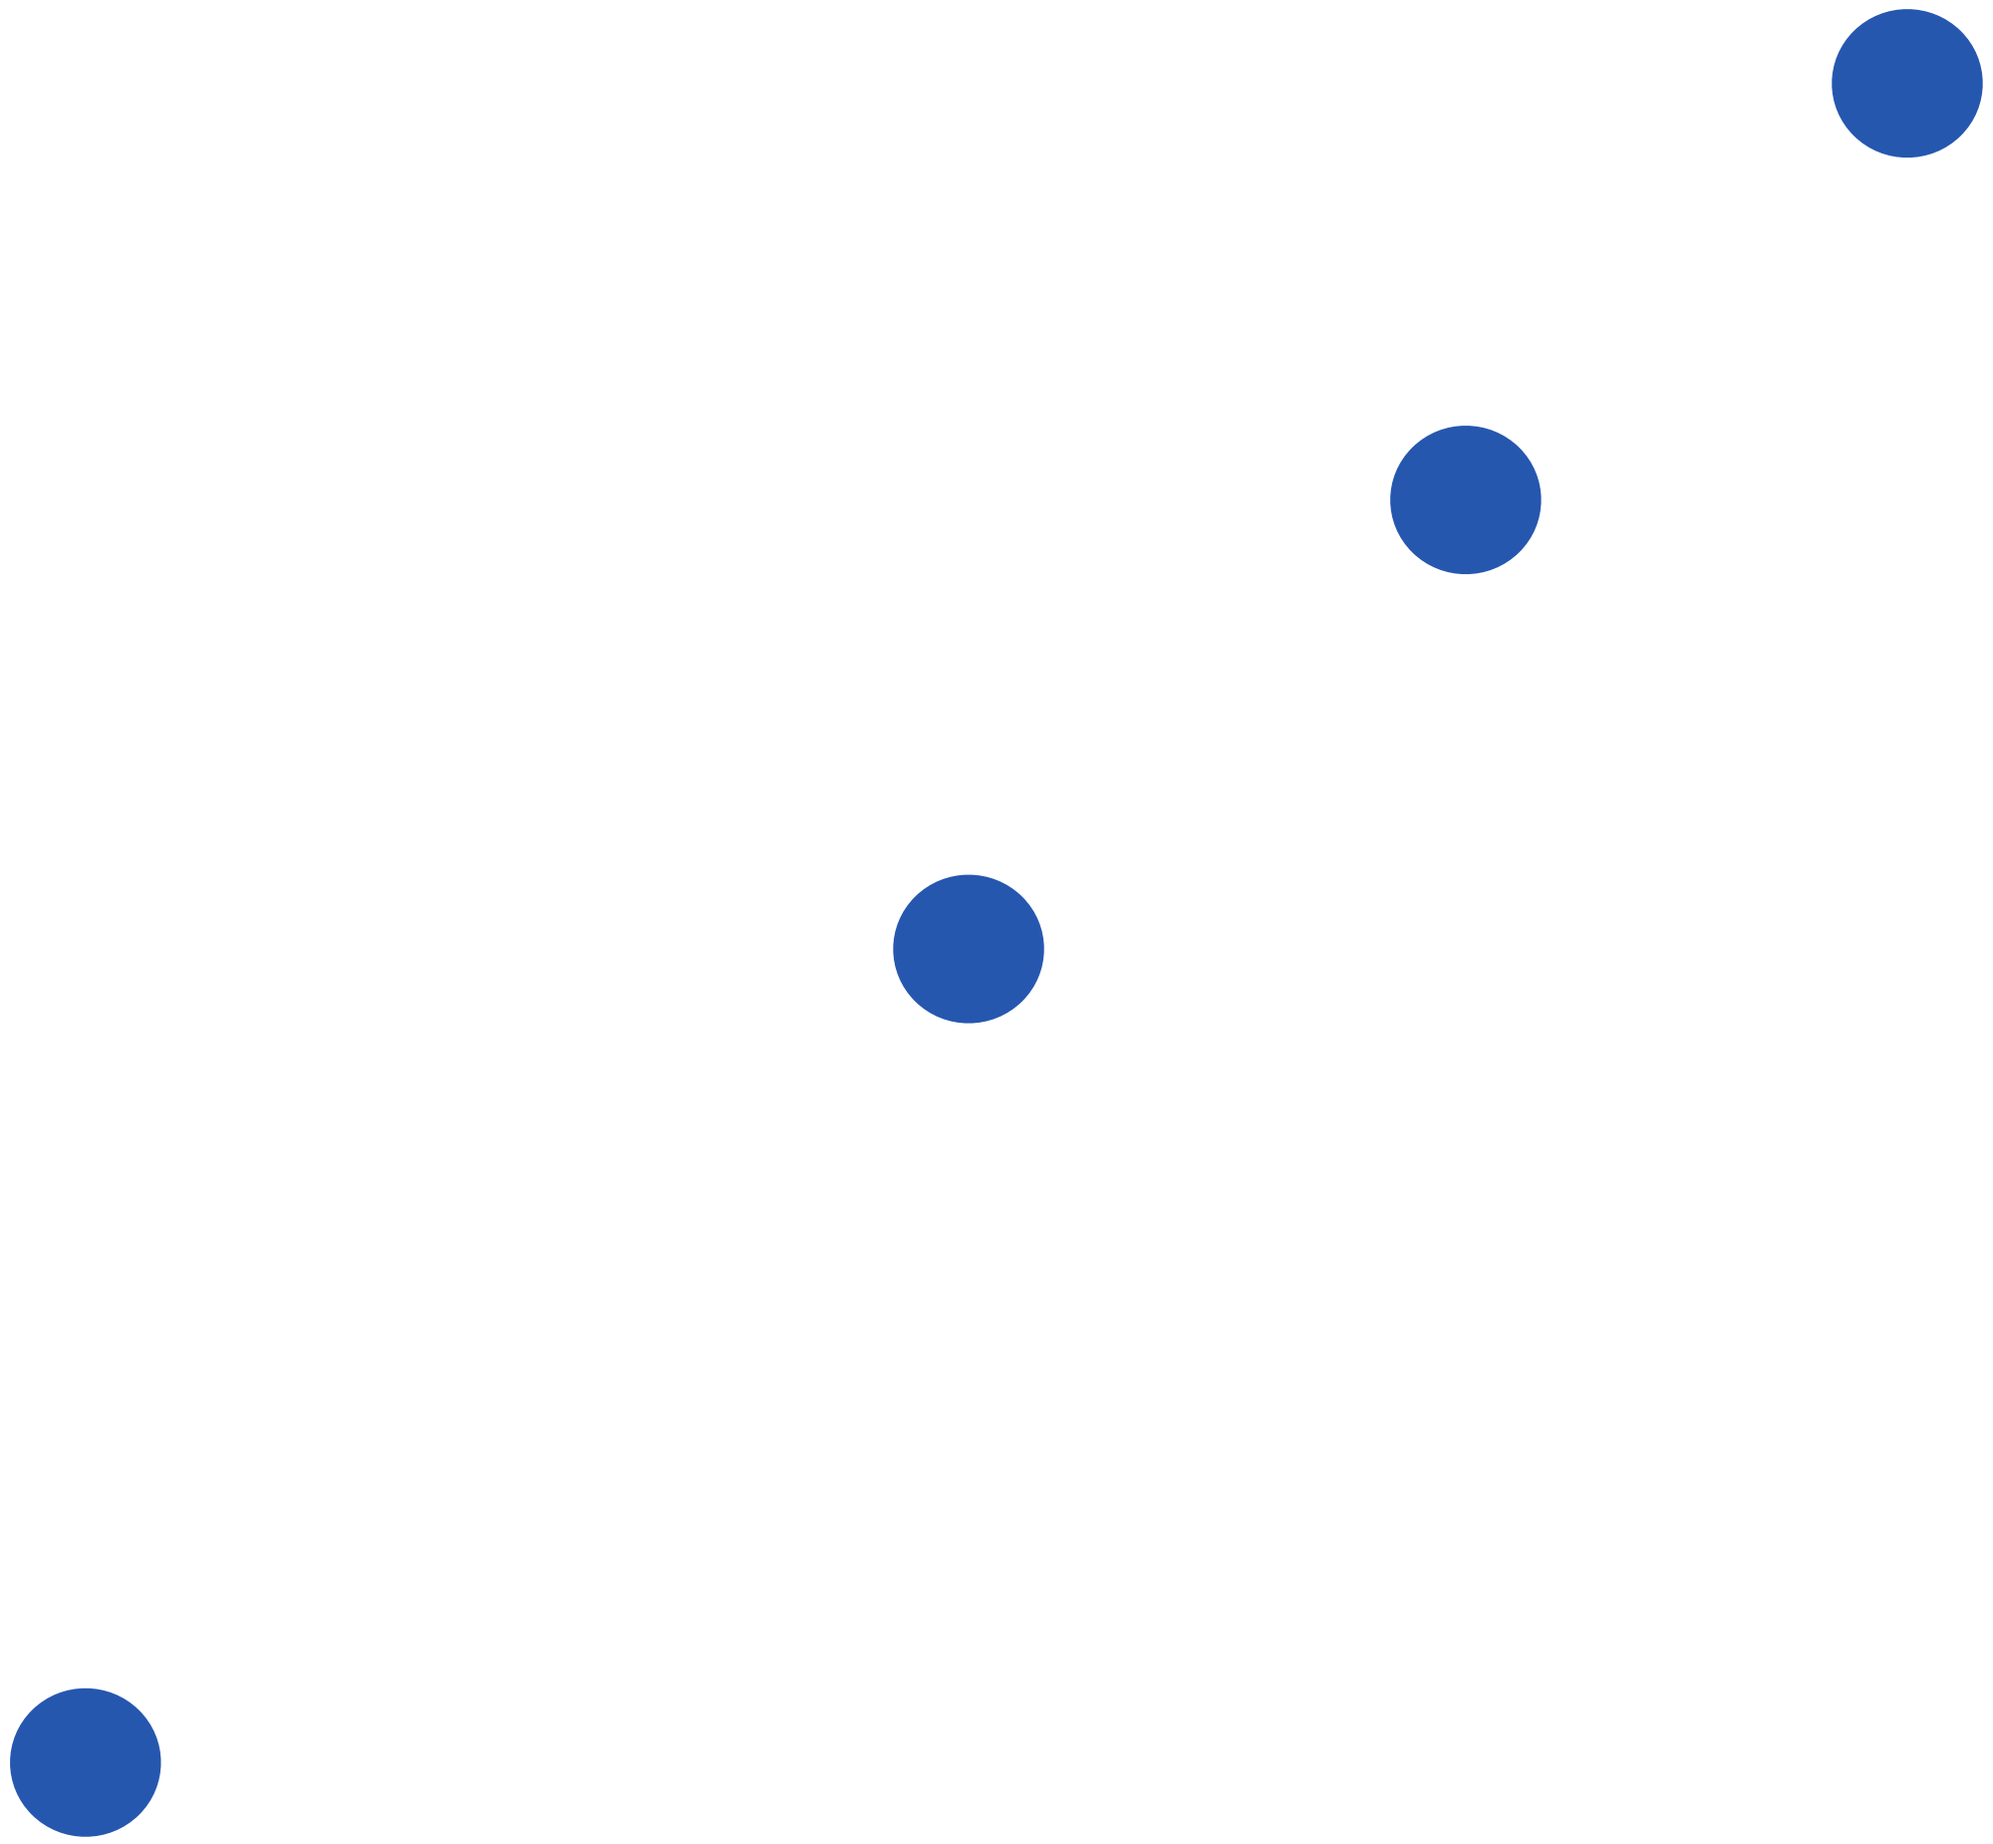
- assume I tell you that the values y are generated by a uniform random number generator

- what would you now guess as $f(0.3)$?



I

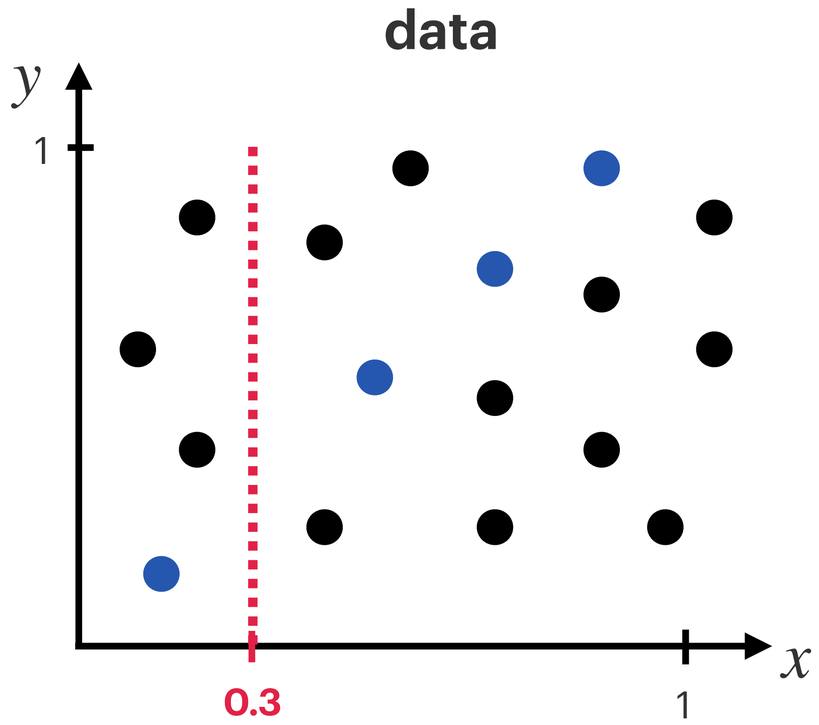
0.3



the data generating process

Example

the data generating process



- assume I tell you that the values y are generated by a uniform random number generator
- what would you now guess as $f(0.3)$?

Statistical Learning